

ABSTRACT

A library of jobs is created, with the jobs performing predetermined functions.

The jobs include a termination indication, which is success or failure. Input file formats

5 of known file types are determined and a job stream to process the input files is constructed of the jobs linked according to the termination success or failure of the preceding job.